Dawnie Wolfe Steadman is the Director of the Forensic Anthropology Center and Professor of Anthropology at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. She received her Ph.D. at the University of Chicago and has been a professor at Iowa State University and Binghamton University, SUNY. Her research interests are in bioarchaeology and forensic anthropology. She has conducted excavations and skeletal analyses of several historic and prehistoric archaeological sites in Illinois, Iowa, and

New York. Dr. Steadman is particularly interested in paleopathology, population genetic modeling of past populations, and the application of forensic anthropology to human rights investigations.

this was the best textbook I've ever had to read

This book houses a variety of case studies from which prospective forensic anthropologists and students can learn from in order to better understand and prevent making mistakes in the field of forensic anthropology.

Bought this product for my college class and it was super helpful. It had good information and it was cheaper here then it was through my bookstore.

Great book to practice critiques

Very good condition, better then expected

Great product!

This is an educational type book that doubles as pleasure reading. Very easy to read and full of thrilling cases.
