JOHN BEVERE, with a D.Min. degree, and his wife, Lisa, travel the globe in their passion to share their love for Christ with others. His bestselling nonfiction books include The Bait of Satan, The Fear of the Lord, and Driven By Eternity. They make a home for their four sons in Colorado Springs.

I liked listening to this as it causes you to think about your own life and how you are living it in the face of eternity. I am always hesitant to speak, teach, and draw firm conclusions about how the end times will look like, however, based on the mistaken understanding of the Messiah's coming from the Jews in the pre-New Testament days, but I have difficulty finding fault with how heaven is portrayed here. I do hope to use this in my youth group to awaken the idea of God's judgement and the importance of our motives and heart in the eyes of God. He is not simply looking at our outward actions and our success in the viewpoint of other people. Do NOT treat this as scripture, but do give it a listen in order to gain perspective on life both during and after our time on Earth. I especially like the scripture references in the CD jacket to back up what is said by King Jaleyn so we know Bevere is not simply making things up. You are able to go to the scriptures themselves to verify what is said. A very nice touch!

"Affabel" is a riveting audio drama depicting the lasting effect our choices have upon ourselves, the world around us, and our eternal destiny. Mr. Bevere presents a beautiful story about five friends who each embark on journeys that will test their loyalty to their king. A reporter is doing a story on war-ravaged Afghanistan. He is tormented by questions about life's seeming inconsistencies. Why is there such pain in the world? What is the point of life? A mysterious stranger offers to show the reporter a wondrous sight and tell him a story that will answer some of his questions. The reporter is led by the stranger through a mysterious cave. He is shown an indescribably beautiful city that is usually invisible to the naked eye. The enigmatic stranger, (whose name is Sevus), then relates a story about a world called Endel, the wondrous city called Affable, and the desolate desert wasteland called Lone. Most importantly, Sevus relates the story of five individuals who make momentous decisions that leave lasting impressions. Independent, Deceived, Selfish, Faint Heart, and Charity are students at the School of Endel. They are mentored by a benevolent teacher named Sevus. Before graduation from the academy, the five students climb to the top of a vast mountain and discuss their future plans. Selfish has dreams of grandeur and success. Deceived longs for a life of parties and prestige. Faint Heart desires to become a teacher at the Endel school. Independent admits to having doubts that King Jalen even exists. And Charity? Well, she longs to open a restaurant and help those in need. The five friends carve their initials into an ancient tree, (DISCF), and agree to meet at the tree in several years to notify one another of their progress in life. Will each person fulfill their dreams? How will they use the money that is given to them by their teacher upon graduating? Who will please the king? Find out by listening to this superb drama. The description I have given may make you believe that this allegory is contrived. This fact couldn't be further from the truth. Each character is vividly depicted. The vulnerability, courage, and stubbornness of each character is clearly discernible. I was particularly impressed with the character of Selfish. Those who please the king may not be the ones you expect. I learned a great deal about Heaven's class system through listening to this drama. Admittedly, I was skeptical of this truth at first, but Mr. Bevere explains the truth of this class system so clearly, and the concept makes sense. (See 1 Corinthians 3:13:15 and 2 Corinthians 5:8:10). This truth is a little disconcerting, but it inspires me to show my love for Christ and do the best I can to trust and serve Him. Please give this wonderful drama a chance. A message from Mr. Bevere at the conclusion of the drama is superb and explains what each character in the allegory symbolizes. Also, copious Scripture references are discussed, making this drama a wonderful Bible study tool. You will learn and be inspired. God bless you all.

Very thought provoking allegory. The reality is that we will all one day die and face our own personal judgement day. This story focuses on what is really important in our fleeting lives, and what matters most. Really makes you think about how you are living your life and what will count when its all said and done. There is also a companion book called, "ETERNITY" by John Bevere which I am reading now and which delves more into the topic. Very sobering, very thought provoking, and very interesting!

These CD's have spread through our church too and have certainly called each and every one to renew our commitment to live lives of holiness! This is not something you can just claim but is something we are all required to practice and pursue! The "once-saved-always-saved" doctrine is a false doctrine that must be examined by the modern Christian church. Faith without works is DEAD! The story is fiction but the author, John Bevere, does offer scripture references for the fate of each of the characters in a pull-out study sheet which is included. I think it would be impossible for a believer NOT to be motivated and inspired! There is so much more here than meets the eye! Something wonderful will happen to you if you order this item today!!!

Affabel is the most inspiring cd anyone can listen to! It will change your life! A friend told me that with life in general as busy as we are, we forget why we are here. She said that Affabel put her back into place. I have seen it with my own eyes absolutely change my jewish girlfriend overnight! How awesome is that! I am so blessed. My daughter gave Affabel to me and I have listened to it 5 times and still have it in my car listening to it. I can't pass mine on because I want it. I have purchased many more and have given them to my family and friends. My 91 year old Auntie LOVES it and is going to listen to it again. She tried to listen to it a little at a time but just could not stop! She was up until 12:30 in the night so that she could finish listening! I sent her 2 of them so she could pass one on and I am in the process of spreading God's word by buying some more. I love it. God has blessed me and my family and friends. Amen!

Great production. Good story. Just a caution: this does teach that one can lose salvation, rather than the Biblical view that if you don't endure to the end, you were never truly saved in the first place.

Teaching of the consequences of our life, heaven or hell.

You have GOT TO hear this audio! They have done such an amazing job of putting what should be

(and sounds like) a real movie - to CD! If you've ever had questions about life after death, or do all people go to heaven, or is it true that "once saved ALWAYS saved" - this CD will answer those questions. And inside the CD are Scriptures to go along with the answers to your questions. This would make a GREAT Bible Study or just listen to it with a friend over coffee. Its something you'll definitely want to discuss with a friend. Even my teenage daughter LOVED it!
