Customer Reviews

"A Powerful tool for training discussions, supervisory, and consultative work." -- Maxine Freund, EdD, George Washington University
"An extraordinary piece of work!" -- Gambi White-Tennant, MEd, New York University Head Start Quality Improvement Center
"This book conveys vividly the excitement, the complexity, and the sheer wonder of infant mental health at its best." -- Alicia Lieberman, PhD, University of California, San Francisco

Joan J. Shirilla, MSW, MEd, is supervisor of Parent-Infant Programs at The Guidance Center, a mental health program serving children, adults, and families in Southeastern Michigan. She has worked with vulnerable infants and families for more than 15 years. Deborah J. Weatherston, PhD, is the director of the Infant Mental Health Program at the Merrill-Palmer Institute at Wayne State University.

Just what the doctor (professor) ordered

The purchase of this book was a needed item to use with an online education program. It is an excellent book for teachers of preschool children.

This book is particularly helpful for those who wouldn't have the ability to work with infants and toddlers in a clinical or practical experience. Insights into an emerging body of research, bought it as "used" from , excellent condition.
